

Forward

by Wernard A. Broodryk

This Songbook contains the Scriptures and lyrics from our first album.

Echoes of Storms came about as a result of the loss of my horses. Thankfully, they did not pass away, but adverse circumstances resulted in their rehoming. They are doing well.

However, I use the word loss, because the separation was excruciating. For almost a decade they were an integral part of my life. Then they were gone. As my song expresses: My heart could not believe such craziness.

After a month of soul darkness and struggle, I believe God led me to write the first song expressing my tragedy. So, Echoes of the Storm was born. That first song led to another - and another - and I haven't stopped since. After producing over 200-plus songs, I was able to choose twelve. A second album followed, also carefully wrought out of a multitude of retakes.

So this first album is especially dedicated to the memory of my beautiful girls.

Most of the songs speak of God's unfathomable omnipotence, mercy, forgiveness and love. The beauty of the music and the impact of the Scripture verses brought healing and comfort.

Each song in this album has been inspired by Scripture, and either uses Scripture in the lyrics, or is associated with Scripture in some way. I pray you will find inspiration, comfort and beauty in these words, Scripture and songs, and somehow be drawn close to the heart of Christ.

Note: I created the characters and voices of Brody Vale and Eden Blue. The music is painstakingly created with the help of special AI tools — each song a result of many hours of careful direction
